Think about what you might want to include in your chocolate room setting.

A setting is...

Introduce

A place or surrounding where something lives, or where an event happens.

Tell someone in your house three things you are going to include in your setting.

WALT use a range of materials to design a 3D art sculpture

context: chocolate room

Remember to:

1. Decide what features you are going to include in your own Chocolate Room.
2. Design your own Chocolate Room and draw it
3. Label your picture with the material you are going to use

Choose from:

-Add expanded noun phrases from your own design

They were looking down upon a lovely valley. There were green meadows on either side of the valley, and along the bottom of it there flowed a great brown river.

What is more, there was a tremendous waterfall halfway along the river - a steep cliff over which the water curled and rolled in a solid sheet, and then went crashing down into a boiling churning whirlpool of froth and spray.

Below the waterfall (and this was the most astonishing sight of all), a whole mass of enormous glass pipes were dangling down into the river from somewhere high up in the ceiling! They really were enormous, those pipes. There must have been a dozen of them at least, and they were sucking up the brownish muddy water from the river and carrying it away to goodness knows where. And because they were made of glass, you could see the liquid flowing and bubbling along inside them, and above the noise of the waterfall, you could hear the never-ending suck-suck-sucking sound of the pipes as they did their work.

Graceful trees and bushes were growing along the riverbanks - weeping willows and alders and tall clumps of rhododendrons with their pink and red and mauve blossoms. In the meadows there were thousands of buttercups.

Review and Improve

Gallery of our work.

Send in a photo of your design sheet or your finished article to your teacher to see.

Tell them something that worked really well and you are going to write about in your setting description.
